

Financial Assistance Agreement

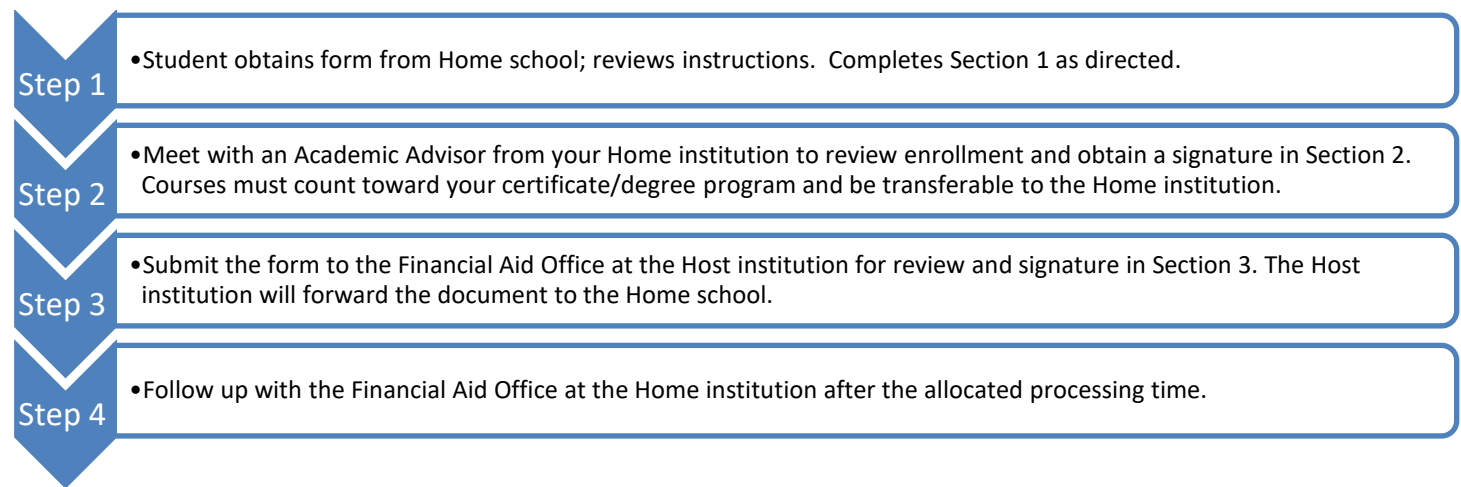

Indiana University - Columbus
Ivy Tech Community College - Columbus

The Financial Assistance Agreement is a coordinated program between Ivy Tech Community College-Columbus and Indiana University Columbus (IUC) that allows enrollment at both institutions to be considered for financial aid purposes. Students may be eligible to receive financial aid when participating in the Financial Assistance Agreement program if the following criterion is met:

- Complete a Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) with the Home (degree granting) institution and provide all requested documentation to the Financial Aid Office at the Home institution;
- Complete a Financial Assistance Agreement for each semester in which you are requesting financial aid 30 days prior to the end of the term; and
- Enroll in a minimum of 3 credit hours at both the Home and Host institution (minimum of 6 total credit hours).

Financial aid eligibility will be determined and awarded by the institution awarding your degree. You may only receive financial aid for courses which transfer to your certificate/degree program at the Home school.

Instructions:

Which school is my Home/Host institution?

The Home institution is the school where you are enrolled in a degree-seeking program and where you will earn your degree. The Home institution will also process and disburse your financial aid. The Host institution is the school you are visiting to complete part of your degree program requirements.

Can the Financial Assistance Agreement be used at another campus?

The Financial Assistance Agreement can only be used between IU Columbus and Ivy Tech Community College - Columbus. All courses (including online and distance learning) must be taken through IU Columbus or Ivy Tech - Columbus campuses. Courses taken at other campuses may not be used to determine your financial aid eligibility.

How will my bill be paid at the Host institution?

The Home institution Financial Aid Office will process and disburse all of your financial aid (excluding CVO). You must pay your Host institution for tuition, fees and books. The Home institution will not directly pay the Host institution (excluding Frank O'Bannon Grant and 21st Century Scholars Grant which will be paid directly between the schools).

- You may use CVO benefits (if you qualify) to pay for tuition and allowable fees at the Host institution. In order to use CVO funds, you must complete a FAFSA and CVO form for both the Home and Host institutions and you must not be taking repeated courses.
